A CAMPUS THAT FEELS LIKE HOME

LIVE ON.

Living on campus helps you build your foundation for success at UNC Charlotte. National research indicates that living on campus contributes to greater overall satisfaction with and success in college. Our own research shows these national trends hold true at UNC Charlotte. Students who live on campus are more likely to graduate on time (in 4 years) than their off-campus peers.

Students who live on campus are more likely to get involved in extracurricular activities and learn valuable educational, social and leadership skills. RESIDENTIAL LEARNING COMMUNITIES

If you're ready to take your studies to the next level, consider the Learning Community programs as a first-year student. Students who enroll in specific Learning Communities will be placed in rooms with other program participants, take certain classes together and have the opportunity to participate in events and programs related to their community's theme. For additional information about the Learning Communities, visit lc.charlotte.edu.

HALL LEADERSHIP

Apply to be a part of a residential leadership council! This select group of students will work in tandem with other residents, RECs, and RAs; gain leadership skills and enhance their personal development; and engage in their community through the coordination of social and service events.

Interested? Then be on the lookout for information in your hall or contact your RA, GHA or REC.

RESIDENCE LIFE EVENTS & ACTIVITIES

One of the most exciting aspects of on campus community living is participating in the many events and activities sponsored by the staff and Resident Students Association (RSA). Not only will you meet and make new friends, but you will have fun while opening yourself to new experiences.

HALL STAFF

Resident Advisors (RA) are specially selected and trained upper-level students who live on your floor in your building. They facilitate a sense of community by helping residents meet one another, planning activities, ensuring that community standards are followed and serving as a resource for students as they navigate university life. RAs are selected for their leadership potential, interpersonal abilities, positive, caring attitudes and sense of commitment. RAs are students' primary resource for campus information and assistance.

Graduate Hall Advisor (GHA) are students in UNC Charlotte graduate degree programs who help to supervise the RAs, facilitate events and activities, assist students with concerns and participate in the overall community operations.

Residence Education Coordinators (REC) are full-time professional staff members who live in the residence communities and are responsible for the educational and operational functions of the living area. They oversee the community, supervise the staff, administer departmental and university policy and assist students with concerns. RECs have advanced degrees and significant experience working with college students.

HALL TOURS

To see a few of our spaces in person, daily campus tours are offered Monday through Friday and select Saturdays through Admissions. For more information, visit admissions.charlotte.edu. You can also schedule an appointment to tour a few of our housing options. To select an appointment date and time, visit housing.charlotte.edu/housing-tours.

HOW TO APPLY

Once you have been admitted, visit housing.charlotte.edu to complete the online application. We begin accepting applications in November and will continue to accept them as long as space is available. A $100 non-refundable housing application fee is required and does not guarantee a housing assignment.

ASSIGNMENTS

Living on campus at UNC Charlotte is very popular and demand is high. To support the success of incoming students, we will prioritize applications from entering first time in college (FTIC) students, new transfer and international students, then continuing students as available space allows.

While most students begin their Charlotte journey living on campus, it's important to approach this experience with a four-year plan in mind. Consider your housing options moving forward, as the majority of non-first-year students will need to live off-campus during their college career.

In addition, assignments are made according to a combination of factors including space availability, date of completed application, roommate requests and building/room preferences. Please keep in mind that preferences are NOT guarantees but are used for placement when requested space is available.

SAFETY & SECURITY

The safety and security of our residential students is of utmost importance. That's why we keep our buildings locked 24/7, and access is restricted to residents of the building. In addition, extra security is provided by professional staff who live in each hall, security guards, security cameras and our own police department on campus. UNC Charlotte also offers LiveSafe, a "mobile blue light phone" app that will help students in distress, send emergency alerts and allow students to anonymously report tips.

DINING & MEAL PLANS

You are never far from a UNC Charlotte Dining Services facility when you live on campus, with two all-you-care-to-eat facilities, twenty retail restaurants and two convenience stores. All first-year students and residents in traditional spaces and suites are required to purchase a meal plan, which is not included in the price of housing. Upperclassmen in apartments and in Greek Village are not required to purchase a meal plan. For more information visit aux.charlotte.edu/meal-plans.

SUPPORT

Trained residence hall and facilities staff are available around-the-clock to respond to any situations that may arise. Live-in staff members provide a web of support for students in a variety of ways including fostering community, assisting with conflict resolution, and helping to maintain a safe living environment. Members of our main office team provide support through housing assignments and processes that address individualized needs like housing accommodations and gender affirming housing. This support has proven invaluable as students transition to campus and work to integrate themselves in the UNC Charlotte community.

ROOM RATES

Room and board rates vary based on the selected residence hall and meal plan. Please visit housing.charlotte.edu for details. Rates are all-inclusive and consist of rent, utilities, cable, laundry and high-speed wired and wireless internet. Meal plans are billed separately from housing.
